DISASTER'S TOTAL 76

SOUTH CAROLINA HOLOCAUST SHOCKS ENTIRE NATION

SIXTY-SIX BODIES FIND SINGLE GRAVE

Pitiful Scenes at the Graveside of Victims of One of the Worst Catastrophes of Years.

Cleveland, S. C.—In one huge box the charred remains of sixty-six men, women and children were laid to rest, whose lives were lost in a rural school fire, and as the final prayers were said over those whose play had suddenly terminated in a raging inferno, 4,000 people, assembled from miles, watched the huge casket lowered into an earth vault.

The grave was marked only by the simple floral gatherings from the fields, laid over the box by friends and relatives of families which either had been wiped out entirely or disrupted by the disaster. A brief service was conducted at the grave, two miles from the scene of the tragedy.

Many pitiful scenes were enacted at the graveside—broken families mingling with terrified parents who narrowly had escaped the tortures of blazing death which swept the school. The dead represent 15 per cent of the community's entire population.

Cleveland, a loosely settled farm township comprising only 490 souls, had dressed in its best to make feta at the children's annual "theatricals" in the upstairs hall of the school.

The boisterous antics of the child actors in a farce called "Topsy Turvey," jolted loose a hook in one of the rafters from which suspended one of the kerosene lamps. In that instant Cleveland was plunged from innocent merriment and homely pride in its children to tragedy and horror.

The lamp struck the pine floor, exploding and showering liquid fire upon the country folk in their seats and filled the roof with flames. There was a rush for the single stairway.

A few nearest the windows smashed the panes and with their clothing afire hurled themselves through the darkness. Two who did so had their backs broken by the fall.

The first surges down the stairs sent most of the audience into the open air. But with those who were fartherest from the mouth of the stairway pressing from behind there was a jam in the vestibule at the bottom, the stairs became overloaded and collapsed into the red pit. There was no chance to save life.

There was no problem of fire apparatus. Almost from the instant of the explosion at 9 o'clock, the building was alive with flames. No heroism, no fire-fighting apparatus could have availed, although there were outstanding deeds of chivalry. One man who leaped from the window horribly burned, made repeated attempts to go back up the collapsed stairway for his mother, who perished.

There also appear to have been cases in which the instinct of self-preservation conquered all else, for children were struck down and trampled in the rush. Some of these little forms recovered could not be identified.

Coroner C. L. Dixon of Kershaw county, together with eleven members of the Dixon family, was among the lost.

A proclamation calling upon the people of South Carolina to contribute to the aid of the sufferers from the Cleveland school fire was issued by Governor Thomas G. McLeod.

Aid from the national headquarters of the American Red Cross was proffered the stricken community

THREAT OF TIE-UP BRINGS CRISIS IN BUILDING CIRCLES

New York.—A wholesale tie-up of building construction in Greater New York is threatened June 1. Forty-four of the seventy-seven locals in the old Building Trades council have approved a general strike on that date unless granted wage increases. The action precipitated a crisis among construction circles, which have already witnessed the postponement of $100,000,000 worth of building because of high material and labor costs.

Typhus Kills 4,000,000 Russ

Washington.—Typhus has killed between three and four million persons in Russia since 1918, according to reports made by Dr. Ludwik Rajchman, director of the health section of the League of Nations.

Washington.—Telegrams to the state department from Peking indicated that negotiations between Chinese authorities and the bandits for the release of American and other foreign prisoners are being hampered by competition among the officials to obtain the credit for release of the captives.

NEW YORK LEGISLATION LIKENED TO SECESSION

Gotham Action Would Mean Battle to a Finish.—Governor Smith in Difficult Position.

Washington.—The first time since the Civil war, the issue of states rights as against the supremacy of the federal constitution has become acute. President Harding has, in a letter to Dr. Wesley Wait of Newburgh, N. Y., challenged the action of the New York legislature in repealing its prohibition enforcement act. He regards it as a flaunting of the federal constitution, which, if made effective by the signature of Governor Smith, would make conflict between the state and federal authorities inevitable.

The president has placed Governor Al Smith in a most difficult position—especially in view of the governor's supposed presidential ambitions. Smith is caught between two courses of action. He can either veto the repeal bill and retain the state enforcement law on the statute books, thus incurring the displeasure of the tremendous wet following he has built up, or he can follow the advice of his Tammany organization and approve the repeal. This would force him to go before the country as a wet, committed to the defunct states rights theory, which was decided against by the Civil war. The weakness of such a position might be well nigh fatal.

Harding is prepared to concentrate prohibition enforcement agents in New York and, by a show-down, demonstrate whether the federal government can enforce its own laws.

FOREST RANGES NAMED FOR COMING SUMMER'S WORK

Sacramento.—State Forester M. B. Pratt announced the appointment of ten forest rangers for this summer. The fire patrol which will go on duty June 1 is composed of the following rangers: E. P. Biggs, Glenn county; George Leverett, Colusa county; E. P. Barnes, Alameda and Contra Costa counties; Glenn Gadbury, Siskiyou county; J. W. Watts, Placer county; George Gillette, Santa Cruz county; J. P. Yost, covering all grain counties; Andrew Shafer, Tehama county; E. A. Frost, inspector of district rangers; O. E. Fowler, inspector of lumber-slash disposal. Lookouts will be stationed on Mt. Bielawaski and M.t Oso.

NATURAL RESOURCES TO BE DEVELOPED BY PROGRAM

Washington.—A federal program for the development of Alaska's huge mineral and natural resources will be the goal of President Harding's coming trip to that territory. To insure a complete study of the Alaskan situation the president will be accompanied throughout his trip by the secretary of the interior, the secretary of agriculture and the secretary of commerce. With a total production to date under American control of $1,100,000,000 in minerals and furs, Alaska is looked upon by the president as one of the nation's biggest problems of the future.

SIXTY-FIVE I. W. W. SUSPECTS JAILED IN NEW L. A. RAID

Los Angeles.—A new police roundup at Los Angeles harbor (San Pedro) netted sixty-five more asserted radicals. They were brought to this city in special cars and jailed on vagrancy charges.

Upton Sinclair, writer and Socialist leader, arrested in connection with the longshoremen's strike, carried his "free speech" fight to Washington when he dispatched a telegram to President Harding asking assistance in "preserving the republican form of government in Los Angeles harbor."

GORGE JAY GOULD DIED OF PNEUMONIA IN FRANCE

Mentone, France.—George Jay Gould, American financier and sportsman, died at his villa near here after a long illness.

Gould, after his second marriage over a year ago, was taken ill and went to Scotland, where he leased a castle. Later he and his bride journeyed to Egypt, where he was attacked by pneumonia. By easy stages he traveled back to his villa near here. He never fully recovered, and high blood pressure brought about complications which resulted in death.

More than 2,000 persons attended the dedication and cornerstone laying of the recently-constructed Hebrew home for the aged at San Francisco. Opening remarks at the exercisce were made by Rabbi Jacob Nieto, who reviewed the past advantages and conveniences of the home at the old site adjoining the new structure.

Pioneer day, May 12, was observed in Kings county with a large gathering of pioneer men and women, their sons and daughters at the county fair grounds at Hanford, under the auspices of the Pioneers' society. Old friendships were renewed and there was a real old-time reunion, with addresses, sports, a barbecue, and a picnic lunch.

Because visitors have lured so many fair orange packers from the Anaheim packing-houses during the past two years, they will be excluded this year. During the 1921 exposition twenty-two marriages resulted that could be traced directly to flirtations that began on visitors' days. During the 1922 show the total jumped to twenty-seven.

Discovery of two skeletons lying in the burned wreckage of an airplane in the Cuyamaca mountains of San Diego county solved the mystery surrounding the disappearance of the two United States army aviators, Col. Francis Marshall and Lieut. Charles K. Webber, on December 7, last, while flying from San Diego to Tucson, Ariz.

Permanent ownership of the new $30,000 American Legion building at Bakersfield was invested in the Frank S. Reynolds Post, by the business men whose efforts were important in raising the funds with which the structure was created. The formal presentation of the building was made to Roland Curran, post commander, who accepted on behalf of the Bakersfield members of the American Legion.

Another angle in the contest over partitioning of Santa Clara Island was brought into view with the filing in the superior court at Santa Barbara of a motion to dismiss the suit of the Caire heirs, asking for a partition and nullify the judgment of the supreme court of the state directing the partitioning. The motion is based on the ground that the United States government has rights involved in the issue, therefore the action is not within the jurisdiction of the state courts.

C. U. H. S. TO GIVE REAL SHOW

Arrangements have just been completed whereby a very enjoyable entertainment will be given in the auditorium of the High School, Tuesday evening, May 29th, under the auspices of the Agricultural department of the school and through the efforts of Mr. D. H. Cramer, principal of the School.

The entertainment will consist of some ten or twelve reels of motion pictures, of unusual merit, depicting the activities of the various agricultural interests over the state, and while a part of the entertainment will be more orless agricultural, the subjects to be shown are arranged in single reel story form and are said to be interesting.

In addition to the four or five reels of state-wide news items, comedy and travel, a fine feature story of six reels will be shown entitled "Too Much Speed" starring Wallace Reid, Theodore Roberts and Agnes Ayres. The purpose of the play is to bring out the bad results of the prevailing automobile speed mania, and in doing this it is said the picture is the finest production that Wallace Reid and Theodore Roberts ever took part in.

The picture opens with "Dusty" Rhoades, the speed demon, ever wanting to satisfy his thirst for more speed, while Theodore Roberts, who takes the part of Pat MacHurran, the automobile manufacturer, is ever inclined to go slow.

The comical situations brought out by these two extreme elements keeps the audience much amused.

A scene with much thrill to it shows the car that won the first prize at the opening of the new Beverly Hills speed course near Hollywood, and "Dusty" Rhoades making a spectacular finissh of the 250 mile race at a speed of 104 miles per hour.

Many notables are seen in the audience, including Cecil B. DeMille, Jessie L. Lasky, Gloria Swanson and others.

The entertainment will be free to the public and will be well worth the time in seeing it.

NEFF COTTAGE BURNS

Monday morning the fire alarm called the department and a generous part of the population to North Central, where the Neff cottage, occupied by Mrs. Sara Robinson was thoroughly ablaze.

The house was old and the type that burns rapidly.

Mrs. Robinson and the owners had endeavored to put out the fire, which originated from an oil stove, so that by the time the department was called the flames had made such headway that all the firemen could do was to save adjoining buildings.

The building was insured but Mrs. Robinson's things were all lost.

MODEL STORE LOOTED OF STOCK

The Model Cash Store owned by A. T. Davey was entered by thieves Monday night, or Tuesday morning probably as the Masonic lodge was in session the fore part of the night.

Mr. Davey had discovered Monday afternoon that the store had been entered some time previously, probably thru the front door which he had found unlocked one morning, altho at the time he did not discover any missing articles. Monday afternoon, however he had occasion to look for certain boys' suits, when the first loss was uncovered. He immediately had the front door lock changed and planned other protective measures to be provided next day.

However that was the night set by the mirauders for their second visit, which they effected by prying u pthe window in the kitchen part and breaking open the door from the pantry into the store. The thieves appeared to be quite familiar with the location and were very particular in their selections.

With the exception of several watches and one hand bag, in which they probably carried them, and several pairs of blankets, the missing stock seems to be from the men's department. Of that, only certain sizes of silk sox, shirts, hats and caps, and overalls were taken. In suits they were not so particular, cleaning the rack of some ten in all. There were sixteen pairs of shoes, all of them dress shoes, taken, the empty boxes being left. Altogether Mr. Davey figures his loss conservatively at $400.

Other people have reported apparent attempts at entry to homes, and in the fact of all the accounts in the paper of the operations of sneak thieves and burglars, it behooves every one to keep houses and buildings well locked and safe guarded.

Mr. Davey's loss was reported at once to the sheriff's office and they hope to locate the stolen goods and apprehend the thieves altho now, with the aid of automobiles, criminals can make an easier get away.

Our good fellow citizens have the sympathy of the community in their financial loss.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

There are many people who believe that co-operative marketing offers more of advantage to the producer than any other means now proposed. Through it the producer is enabled to help himself, which is just exactly what the producer wants, for he believes in his own ability to work out his own destiny if he has an open field and a fair opportunity. For these reasons the co-operative plans are being formulated and pushed ahead in many places. There are many producers in California who know to their own satisfaction the financial advantages derived from co-operative marketing. They have tried it and found it good, even though it was tried in but a small way.

The co-operative idea should be developed largely in the state during the coming season in many fields and with many products. The producer believes his largest advantage now would be possible by controlling the marketing of those things he produces and by following his products much nearer to the consumer. The public will be interested in watching the co-operative work put under way in the larger operations and will hope it may bring a goodly measure of advantage the producer seeks. The prosperity of the producer lays a broad foundation for benefits to all.

SUGAR PRICES

It will soon be time to dig up those old wartime recipes on how to can fruit with the minimum of sugar, judging by the way that commodity is soaring skyward. Wholesale quotations have been running around eleven to twelve dollars and they say the peak has not been reached. What is the worst feature about it is that there does not seem to be the scarcity to demand a rise in prices like this. A commission has been appointed to look into an alleged combine to boost prices, but commissions are notoriously slow in coming to conclusions, and in the meantime the canning season will be over. A boycott for a week or two on sugar would probably do more good than all the commissions that could be appointed.

TENDING THE HOME PLACE

Some people's idea of beautifying a home is to set out shrubs and plants and then let them take care of themselves entirely. Many people set out shrubs, not so much because they love the beauty of these plants, as because they have the idea that they will thrive without effort on anyone's part.

Perhaps some plants may grow all right without attention particularly in rich soils, but as a rule their appearance can be improved by care. By digging around them regularly, and fertilizing and thinning as needed, shsrubbery can usually be made more attractive.

Many homes around which the plants have been neglected get a run down and tangled appearance that is worse than if nothing had been set out. It does take a little effort to keep a place well tended but the results are so rewarding that no one in Campbell should begrudge it.

You can help others by helping yourself.

Let every man who owns or operates an automobile or motor truck resolve to repeat the slogan each day—I WILL CROSS CROSSING CAUTIOUSLY. There is no need of stating what the result would be if the motorists of the country followed out this edict.

Uncle Sam is going to give a bitter taste to the dose he will hand out to the sugar profiteers.

REVOLUTIONARY PLOT SEEN IN CHINESE BANDIT ACTION

Peking.—Chinese bandits are reported to have issued a call to dismissed and unpaid troops to join them in a revolution against the government, acording to well authenticated dispatches from Lincheng. If the government does not meet the kidnapers' demands, the latter must wage warfare on the largest possible scale, a bandit proclamation is said to state. Depredations of bandits, who still hold a dozen foreigners captive, may cost the government of China abolition of extra territoriality.

The governmnet troops are restless and are said to have threatened to join bandit ranks. The troops have not been paid in eighteen months and prospects of loot and food in the lines of the outlaws are tempting them to revolt.

Affidavits charging officers of the Prune and Apricot Growers' association with accepting $5,000 brokerage fees were sworn to at San Jose by Supervisor Judge J. R. Welch, who is conducting a fight against the present personnel of the association.

A report made public by the chief of the bureau of vital statistics, shows an increase of 25 per cent in the number of deaths from automobile accidents in 1922 over 1921. During 1922 the total of fatalities from automobile accidents was 1,085, as against 889 in 1921, while the number in 1920 was 804 deaths.

Double Pay for Spare Time
Double Value in Spare Dollars

EDWARD EARLE PURITON, who specializes in teaching personal efficiency, has this to say about spare time: "You can make your spare hours worth twice as much to you as your hours of work. How? In spare time; study your job so as some day to be worth twice as much pay. Or, In spare time, study some other job that pays twice as big wages as the job you now have."

This is an old idea in a new guise. We have all long known that men have become more successful by good use of spare time; but to say that spare hours are double the value of work hours makes us think. It is well to bear in mind, however, lest we slight the work hour, that the work hour is when we cash in on the value of the spare hour—we are to learn how to be worth twice as much to our employers, to our businesses or our professions.

So much, for the moment, for the idea of the spare hour; from it to the idea of the spare dollar is an easy step. The spare dollar, like the spare hour, is something to use as you will. Other dollars are gone, spent for necessities or pleasure. They have served you once; they can never serve you again. But the spare dollar stays to serve you yet. As a Savings Dollar it pays you interest; as an Invested Dollar it is working for you in your farm or in your business. If you are ever to be free, in the sense termed "independently well off," it is the spare dollar that will make you so.

The spare dollar, too, is worth double. As knowledge learned in spare hours becomes your partner to double your earning power, so the Interest Value of Invested Value of spare dollars works along with you to double your income again. More spare dollars are, indeed, part of the reward from your rightly used spare hours. But to ever be worth double, the spare dollars must be definitely put aside as saved dollars—that is the first and all important step.

DAY OF HIGH SIGNIFICANCE

Memorial Spirit Has Become Much More Than a Mere Tribute to the Heroic Dead.

Every time the people of this country observe Memorial day the obligation becomes greater. For each year more have passed from this life to whom is owed the debt of gratitude for services rendered in the development and preservation of the nation.

This is the true spirit of Memorial day, to commemorate the services of those who wrought for the republic, who served it in its hours of trial, who died for it. Originally conceived as an occasion for the bestowal of memories upon those who fell in the wars, the day has broadened, as it should broaden, into a commemoration of all who have given of their talents and wisdom as well as their strength and their life blood that the United States might survive and grow and become an institution for the highest achievements and the greatest happiness of man.

Those who have given their lives, or who suffered in bodily hurts in the wars in which this country has been involved, naturally come first in this reckoning of honor and praise today. But true patriotic service is not measured solely by military duty, great as may have been the sacrifice entailed by it. Statesmanship and citizenship in times of peace as well as in times of war have contributed to the upkeeping of the national ideals.

It is, perhaps, the best of all thoughts inspired by Memorial day that tokens of gratitude and reverence are placed upon the graves of those who fought on both sides of the war between the states. This day, though it had its origin in the memories of that war when the rancors of civil strife had not subsided, is now a truly national service. The healing of that breach is most surely made manifest by the association of the representatives of both sections in the ceremonies that take place in all parts of the country.

The United States has become the stronger, the more surely a union of interests and the object of the highest wishes of men of all parts and states and sections because of the feelings that are each year on Memorial day given expression in the places of public assemblage, in orations, in music and in the impressive observances at the graves of the dead.

Growing in significance year by year, participated in more generally by the people of all the states, with a longer list of Americans who have given all they had for the nation's sake and for their ideals of America, Memorial day becomes one of the bulwarks of the nation. It is an inspiration to youth as it is a solace to the elders.—New York Sun.

How sleep the brave who sink to rest
By all their country's wishes blest!
When Spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns to deck their hallowed mould
She there shall dress a sweeter sod
Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.

By fairy hands their knell is rung;
By forms unseen their dirge is sung;
There Honor comes, a pilgrim gray,
To bless the turf that wraps their clay;
And Freedom shall awhile repair
To dwell a weeping hermit there.
—William Collins.

Miss Herndon, who has made her home here with Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Farr while employed at the Bean Spray plant in San Jose, has gone to Oakland to live.

Mrs. Leona Neff wishes to express thru the Press her thanks to the Fire Company for their efforts to save her cottage, and their success in preventing further loss, and to Mr. Souto, who sounded the alarm, together with other neighbors and friends for their kindly assistance.

Children and parents are warned that it is not safe for the children to play in and around the new library building either after the workmen leave in the afternoon, or after supper. There is every possibility of broken bones or other serious injuries, as well as the great danger of fire. Both the Biulding Committee and the Contractors urge parents to see that their children are kept away on account of both of these important reasons.

TO THE men of '61 and to the men of '18 as well as to the men who served in the war of 1898 we pause to do equal and impartial homage. All have upheld the spirit of the republic; all have done their wonderful best to make our nation fulfill the ideal of the poet:

Zealous, yet modest; innocent, though free;
Patient of toil; serene amidst alarms;
Inflexible in faith, invincible in arms.
